

OUTDOOR ALTERNATIVE, RHOSCOLYN

Cerrig yr Adar is at the southern end of Ynys Cybi - Holy Island, 300 metres from the pleasant and safe Borthwen beach at Rhoscolyn.

We appear on the Ordnance Survey 50,000 Sheet 114 as a building symbol at ref. 278752. To find us by road: from the new A55 dual carriageway across the Island leave at Junction 3, signposted Y Fali/Valley, A5; and following signs for Y Fali/Valley, continue to the road junction traffic lights. Turn left for Trearddur (Bay) B4545; continue for just over 1 mile, over the new road bridge, straight across the mini roundabout and take the left turn shortly after the bridge over the Inland Sea at Four Mile Bridge - signposted, 'Rhoscolyn', After 1.3 miles turn sharp left at the 'Silver Bay' sign. At about 1K/.6mile down this lane look for a large white gate-post appearing in the middle of the road. (This is BEFORE the first speed-ramp.) Take the unmade track, to the right of the post; the gate says 'Private road no cars', follow this track 200m, Cerrig yr Adar/Outdoor Alternative is on the left.
